

LEADERS IN PERSONAL INJURY AND INSURANCE LAW

With many years of experience, Aaron Engle Law (AEL) provides unsurpassed advocacy for those who have suffered traumatic brain and spinal cord injuries. We also work with individuals seriously injured in accidents by helping them navigate the insurance claims process and gain access to needed medical care. In addition, we are experts at reversing the wrongful denial of disability benefits—under both private and employer-sponsored ERISA plans—as well as managing bad faith cases against insurance companies. Few law firms have litigated more disability insurance claims than AEL.

A team approach.

For each case, AEL builds a dedicated team, which includes a primary attorney, case manager, and administrative staff. This experienced team works together to smoothly ensure the best possible outcome for each client.

Our success in and out of the courtroom comes from expertise in the law, the insurance process, medical issues, and appropriate treatments. We consistently achieve superior results for clients.

A track record of excellence.

For many years, the professionals at AEL have built an admirable track record for aggressive case development, innovation, and successful resolution for our clients.

We have successfully represented numerous individuals and their families, against the biggest insurers and corporations. We fight disability insurers everyday.

Receive the care and compensation you deserve.

AEL offers deep expertise in personal injury and insurance law with special emphasis on claims involving:

- Catastrophic Personal Injury
- Medical Malpractice
- Long-Term Disability Denial
- Life Insurance Denial
- Insurance Bad Faith

Focusing on client's needs

For any injury case, the ultimate goal is always to achieve the best medical recovery possible. In addition to offering expert legal counsel, the entire AEL team keeps sight of your physical, emotional, and financial needs. AEL understands that medical needs can last a lifetime.

We take time to listen to you, provide sound advice, and maximize your opportunities to obtain fair compensation. With our knowledge of the insurance industry, we can make a significant difference in reducing the hassles associated with the claims process. We know how important it is to have someone who will listen to you and help promote your medical recovery.

Innovative techniques and experience produce an admirable litigation and settlement track record in brain injury cases.

Fifteen years ago, our firm began raising public awareness about the devastating consequences of Second Impact Syndrome—a life-threatening type of brain injury. We acquired an intimate familiarity with the leading science, the preeminent doctors in the field, and the ways to best help those who have suffered from Second Impact Syndrome and other brain injuries.

Our firm's long-standing commitment to assisting those suffering from all forms of traumatic brain injury led to our involvement with the Zackery Lystedt return-to-play and sports concussion case, which was featured on 60 Minutes and The CBS Evening News with Katie Couric.

Other achievements include:

- A settlement with the State of Washington after an SUV broke through an improperly installed cable barrier and crashed head-on into a family's Suburban, killing one daughter and severely injuring other family members.
- A judicial ruling that our client's insurance company had acted in bad faith in denying a life insurance claim.
- A ban by the state's insurance commissioner on discretionary clauses in disability insurance policies that deprive insureds of rigorous judicial review and rightful benefits. In numerous Federal Court disability cases involving brain injury, cancer, multiple sclerosis, lupus, fibromyalgia, chronic fatigue syndrome, and other debilitating conditions, AEL has secured benefits for deserving clients when insurance companies refused to pay benefits owed.

Our success in and out of the courtroom comes from a combination of legal expertise, knowledge of insurance law and the claims process, and an in-depth understanding of medical issues, including appropriate treatment. Let us help you.

Defending your dignity. Protecting your peace of mind.
